The Texas Economic Development Council's Education Foundation is a Texas non-profit corporation.

The purposes for which the Foundation is organized are:

- Encouraging professionalism in the field of economic development through instruction, training, and education;
- Upgrading the capabilities of civic and community leaders to assume leadership roles in economic development at both the state and local levels; and,
- Strengthening the economy of the state by funding technical education in the field of economic development.

INFORMATION ON THE TEXAS BASIC ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT COURSE:

Frequency:

The Texas Economic Development Council hosts two to three Basic Economic Development Courses (BEDC) each year. The BEDC is accredited by the International Economic Development Council (IEDC).

Accreditation:

The course is accredited by the International Economic Development Council. This course qualifies as a professional development training requirement needed to sit for the Certified Economic Developer (CEcD) examination.

Registration:

The registration for the Basic Economic Development Course is $700 per person. The fee includes course materials, a certificate of completion and some meals.

To register, visit www.texasedc.org, and click on “Events and Education”. Registration will be open for only one BEDC at a time.

Please note that there are limited spots available in each BEDC. Class size is limited so that each participant may have the best experience possible. All interested participants are encouraged to register timely. If you are applying for a BEDC scholarship, please do not wait to hear about the status of the award before registering for the course. Payment of the registration fee is not required to be paid at the time of registration, but is required to be paid before the course begins.

Dates and Locations:

The dates and locations of each BEDC is published on the TEDC’s website at www.texasedc.org under “Events and Education”.
